THE LIFE AND TIMES OF

POMP: JEAN BAPTISTE CHARBONNEAU

Jean Baptiste Charbonneau was a fur trade legend who saw the opening of the Santa Fe Trail, Mexican War, and California gold rush. A highly educated Metis, half-Indian and half-French Canadian, Jean Baptiste was adopted by William Clark and schooled in the Classics in the finest European tradition. Hear the epic story of Sacagawea's son, "Pomp."

This is an interactive "hands-on" presentation with historically accurate Lewis & Clark Gear.

Acclaimed as one of the best "first person interpreters," Garry Bush brings history alive for the audience.
