The Washington State Chapter membership is invited to gather in Ilwaco, WA and Astoria, OR for the annual "Ocian In View" weekend on November 6th, 7th and 8th. Sponsored by the Columbia Pacific Heritage Museum (CPHM) in Ilwaco, the Ocian In View program will feature several events.

The program will kick off at 6:00 P.M. on Friday evening with speaker Roger Wendlick presenting, "Lost In the Fog on November 7th" at the CPHM (but keep in mind that Roger's talk will be on the 6th, not the 7th!). This program will be free and open to the public.

Saturday activities will begin with a bus tour of Lewis and Clark sites in the area, led by Jim Sayce and Roger Wendlick. The tour will depart from the CPHM at 9:00 A.M. The cost is $20 per person, and advance reservations are required (see below).

The Knappton Cove Heritage Center will open its doors for "O! How Horrible is the Day" from 11 A.M. to 2 P.M., with a living history camp featuring members of the Pacific Northwest Living Historians. Enjoy hot cider while you take a walk to the river or enjoy the Museum. The bus tour will stop at this event, or you can visit on your own.

In addition to the Ocian In View activities, at 2 P.M. the Oregon Chapter of the LCTHF will dedicate an interpretive panel and bench near Tongue Point at Astoria, OR in the memory of Keith Hay (see article on page 2).

There will be a short WA State Chapter meeting immediately after the dedication, about 3:00 P.M. - either at the Tongue Point site or elsewhere, weather permitting.

From 4pm to 7pm the Chinook Indian Nation will host its Annual Dinner at the

POINT WILLIAM INTERPRETIVE PANEL AND BENCH DEDICATION

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 7

ASTORIA RIVERWALK AT ALDERBROOK LAGOON

From the Oregon Chapter of the LCTHF

A little-known Lewis & Clark campsite is about to get some well-deserved recognition. On Saturday, November 7, the Oregon Chapter-Lewis & Clark Trail Heritage Foundation will dedicate an interpretive panel highlighting the Corps of Discovery's 10-day stay at Point William (Tongue Point) and a bench honoring Keith G. Hay, long-time chapter leader. Join us at 2:00 p.m. for a celebration at the Alderbrook Lagoon at the eastern-most point of the Astoria Riverwalk.

On November 27, 1805 following their stays on the north shore of the Columbia River, the Corps of Discovery headed to the south shore to prepare for winter. Captain William Clark wrote:

"...we proceeded on between maney Small Islands passing a Small river of ____ yds wide which the Indians Call ____ and around a very remarkable point which projects about 1½ Miles directly towards the Shallow bay the isthmus which joins it to the main land is not exceding 50 yards and about 4 Miles around. We call this Point William"

Funding for this project was provided by the LCTHF through the Lewis & Clark Trail Stewardship Endowment, a National Council of the Lewis & Clark Expedition Bicentennial Legacy Project; the Oregon Chapter-Lewis & Clark Trail Heritage Foundation; and friends and family of Keith Hay. Partners in development and installation included Astoria Parks and Recreation, Tongue Point Job Corps, the Clatsop-Nehalem Tribe, the Astoria Chamber of Commerce and the National Park Service. For more information about the dedication contact Mark Johnson (503-805-6691 or markbarb2@comcast.net) or Tom Wilson (503-325-6284 or wilson206@charter.net).

Keith G. Hay

A career professional in outdoor recreation and environmental management, Keith Hay co-authored a landmark study commissioned in 1962 by the Interior Department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation to define what later became the National Lewis & Clark Historic Trail. In those years of data-gathering along the Trail, he studied the rivers and land route in detail across 10 states. Years later he was instrumental in resurrecting the Oregon LCTHF Chapter, becoming its president. He was also deeply involved in planning the Lewis and Clark Bicentennial in Oregon as the vice president of LCBO's board.

Keith's book The Lewis and Clark Columbia River Water Trail, a Guide for Paddlers, Hikers, and Other Explorers was published before the Bicentennial. It was immediately sought after by canoeists and kayakers as well as those driving along both sides of the river from Bonneville Dam to the river's mouth, pointing out not only historic places but safe passages and overnight camping spots. The Lewis & Clark Trail Heritage Foundation honored Keith with its Meritorious Achievement Award at the 2011 Annual Meeting. Keith died in 2013.

BSA PATCH COMING IN 2016

The Lewis and Clark Trail Heritage Foundation, Boy Scouts of America, and other youth programs such as American Heritage Girls, join forces to bring the spirit of Lewis and Clark to the world of scouting. The roots of this relationship run deep—the Corps of Discovery exemplified the scouting traditions of duty, loyalty, and patriotism.

Under these partnerships, scouts and youths can earn special Lewis and Clark patches when they accomplish the requirements set by the Foundation Chapters. In 2016 the Washington State Chapter will offer its own unique patch, with art created by Amanda Townsend, for the youth of our state.
